

THE GRENADA SENTINEL.

VOLUME LXXVII

GRENADA, MISSISSIPPI, FRIDAY, AUGUST 10, 1929.

NUMBER 15.

TWO NEW GINS IN COUNTY

Two new gins have just been completed in Grenada county and the farmers' needs along this line will thus be more easily taken care of. One of the new gins is located north of Grenada on Highway 51, just east of Geeslin's Store and Filling Station and is being operated by D. H. White, who comes to Grenada from Kilmichael where he has had twenty years or more experience in ginning. The White Gin has ginned its first bale, cotton from the crop of R. W. Jones. South of Grenada on Glenwild Plantation a new gin has been erected by John Borden and it will gin for the general public.

Both these new gins are electrically operated and both are equipped with the most modern in gin machinery.

SCHOOLS OPEN SEPT 9

Grenada City Schools will open Monday morning, September 9th, at 8:20 o'clock. We hope all parents will see that their children are ready for work at this time.

Beginners should have been vaccinated for smallpox some time ago. Any who haven't been, should be vaccinated before they enter school.

All students should be classified next week and have books ready for first day's work.

There will be a class in the commercial department for persons not enrolled in school. Those interested in this class should see me at once, as the number is limited to ten.

Following is the schedule for classification of students:

High School
9th grade, Tuesday a. m., Sept. 3rd; 10th grade, Wednesday a. m., Sept. 4th; 11th grade, Thursday a. m., Sept. 5th; 12th grade, Friday a. m., Sept. 6th.

Students please go to the superintendent's office in the high school building.

Elementary School
The Plant—Monday a. m., Sept. 2nd; Elliott—Monday p. m., Sept. 2nd; Fair Ground—Tuesday a. m., Sept. 3rd; County—Tuesday p. m., Sept. 3rd; City—1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th grades, Wednesday a. m., Sept. 4th; City—5th, 6th, 7th, 8th grades, Wednesday p. m., Sept. 4th.

Students will please go to the principal's office in the elementary school building.

The following faculty is announced for the session of 1929-1930:

High School
John Rundle, Superintendent

Mrs. Willie Mae Dubard, study hall principal; J. C. Hathorn, science and athletics; Miss Katie Mae Dear, home economics; Miss Estelle Turner, English; Miss Lenore Conner, French and history; Miss Mary Lou Diggs, Latin; Miss Hattie Hammond, mathematics; Miss Allen Ramsey, mathematics and Algebra; Mrs. H. O. Thompson, grade 4; Miss Etta Turner, grade 3; Mrs. Johnnie Wyllie and Miss Georgia Cook, grade 2; Miss Ruth Corley and Miss Margaret D. Ellis, grade 1.

We appreciate the splendid cooperation we have always had from parents and pupils in working out classification problems before school opens and we shall appreciate the continuation of this cooperation.

Cordially yours,
JOHN RUNDLE,
Supt. Grenada City Schools.

20th CENTURY CLUB MEETS
TUESDAY, SEPT. 3, 3:30

The Twentieth Century Club will meet next Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 3rd, at 3:30 o'clock, with Mrs. R. A. Clanton, Margin Street, as hostess. The following program will be carried out:

Topic: "American Principles and Ideals. Do They Make Men Great?"

Paper (Dr. Berle) Mrs. C. C. Penn; Two American Ideals and What We Might Learn from Them, Mrs. John Rundle; The Value of the Study of American Ideals, Mrs. O. F. Lawrence.

A roll call, members will give answer to this question: "What will your individual effort be to make this year's study course worth while?"

The music for the meeting will be in charge of the club musical director, Mrs. R. H. Herring.

Facial Judgments

If you would measure the quality of a man, look first into his eyes. But if you would gauge the character of a woman, study her lips first and then try to find out whether her eyes confirm their message. The month, lips and chin form the emotional area of the face.—Exchange.

LOCAL MERCHANTS OPPOSE SALES TAX

Local Business Men Go On Record at Mass Meeting Tuesday against General Sales Tax. Governor and Two Houses of Legislature Urged Not to Consider Such Measure in Resolution Which Point Out Dangers to Business of State If Sales Tax Law Passed.

The merchants of Grenada are taking time by the forelock as regards a general sales tax which several seemingly authoritative sources emanating from Jackson say will be up for consideration either by the present extraordinary session of the legislature or by another one which seems to be evident for some time in November. The merchants of the town got together Tuesday morning, August 27, and after choosing L. J. Doak as chairman and R. C. Trusty as secretary, discussed a general sales tax and with one voice, it was agreed that such a tax would be worse than detrimental to the merchants of the entire state, hence the meeting put itself on record in unmistakable terms against a general sales tax law.

The meeting further endorsed the utterance of the chairman of the committee on appropriations of the house of representatives, Hon. L. T. Kennedy, when he prophesied that it would be a cold day in August at the 1930 meeting of the legislature when he and the members of the appropriations committee voted any funds for any institution or enterprise of the state before the revenue to take care of the same had been voted.

The following shows the action of the Grenada merchants:

Whereas we have information from several sources which we deem reliable that it is more than probable that the legislature will be called upon to consider the question of raising revenue at the present extraordinary session, and that it is more than likely that a general sales tax will be urged; and

Whereas, while we fully appreciate the difficulty that confronts our lawmakers in fixing the sources of revenue, we insist that a general sales tax would be almost paralyzing to the mercantile interests of the state; and many we honestly believe it would mean financial ruin; and

Whereas, the mail order firms are the strongest competition of Mississippi's merchants; the sales tax could not reach them, but reach the local merchants who pay local and state taxes and who are large factors in supporting our schools and in maintaining those institutions which care for the afflicted and the unfortunate.

Therefore, Be it Resolved by the merchants and business men of Grenada in mass meeting assembled that we urge the Governor of our state not to press a general sales tax on the attention of the legislature and we likewise beg of our legislators not to pass a general sales tax law.

Resolved further that we want to commend the wisdom of the statement which we see credited to the chairman of the committee on appropriations of the house of representatives, to the effect that he would favor no appropriation at the 1930 session of the legislature, nor did he believe the appropriations committee would, until bills were passed which would take care of all appropriation bills.

Resolved further that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to Gov. Bilbo, to the Lt. Governor and to the Speaker of the House of representatives.

LOUISIANA OIL CONCERN EXPANDS IN MISSISSIPPI

In answer to an insistent demand for its premium gasoline and motor oils, the Louisiana Oil Corporation is undergoing one of the most thorough expansions in the state of Mississippi being enjoyed by any industry.

The corporation, which is domiciled in Jackson, and is a Mississippi institution, has acquired retail service station locations in nearly every large city in the state.

Its products—Loreco Gasoline, Loreco Ethyl Gasoline and Loreco Motor Oil—are now distributed in nearly every county and it is possible to drive the length and breadth of Mississippi on these products, and within easy driving distance of any one of the Loreco stations.

Loreco Gasoline and Motor Oils are especially refined for the South. They are distributed from Texas through Alabama and from the Gulf to Arkansas.

The Louisiana Oil Corporation is one of the largest independent producers, refiners and marketers of petroleum products in the country.

The entry of the Louisiana Oil Corporation in this city is further proof of the increasing prosperity of this section.

LEGION TO ADVERTISE STATE

In 1926 two and one-half million people stood for eight hours, watching two hundred and twenty-five thousand Legionnaires parade down Broad Street in Philadelphia. Mississippi occupied thirty-eighth place. In 1927 four million people witnessed 35,000 Legionnaires on Parade in Paris, France. Mississippi occupied twenty-eighth place. In 1928 three miles of human beings standing in rank, twenty deep on the streets of San Antonio saw 75,000 Legionnaires pass in review. Mississippi occupied fifth place.

The Magnolia Legionnaires will lead the other forty-seven states in Louisville, Kentucky, October 2nd. They will form the spearhead of the world's largest parade. 350,000 Legionnaires and Auxiliary members will be there. Over a million visitors will visit with them.

Commander Wm. K. Schmitt, Past Commander, Dudley Owens and the State Executive Committee, realizing the importance of Mississippi's commanding position have determined to "introduce Mississippi and her products to the World". To this end, the Legion is raising $3,000 within its own ranks, and the State Development Board has offered to aid in raising the balance calling on Chambers of Commerce and public spirited citizens throughout the state to respond.

A Mississippi Booth on the "Promenade" is a house a display of Mississippi products and will be under the supervision of members of the Mississippi Legion and experts from the Development Board. 100,000 cotton bolls with slogan attached, will be distributed to the thousands attending from the North and Eastern states.

For the parade, there will be four drum and bugle corps in the Mississippi Delegation. Greenville, Gulfport, Greenwood and Jackson, with the champion purple and gold Greenville team leading.

W. D. Owens of Jackson is in charge of parade arrangements, while Owens, L. J. Folse, Mrs. E. S. Woodward, Leon Hendrick, all of Jackson; F. J. Block of Laurel, Chas. H. Blewett of Piquette; and Luther W. Maples of Gulfport are in charge of the State Advertising Committee.

IT PAYS TO LOOK WELL

The doctrine that it pays to look well, originated as a merchandising slogan and used to convince man that he should own two pairs of trousers, get his hair cut once a week, buy more haberdashery, and otherwise keep himself trim, may be applied with equal logic to a countryside. It pays a region to look well.

Possibly something like that is what the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation had in mind when it joined with the State Highway Commission this summer in a campaign to make and keep Missouri roadsides beautiful. The Federation is conducting county contests among its members, the ultimate purpose of which is to make Missouri one of the nation's beauty spots.

Highway commissions, chambers of commerce and other official and semi-official bodies, can do much to improve the appearance of the highways and the countryside which they traverse, but eventually a dead end is reached unless the farmers join in the campaign. For the farmer holds the key to the situation; he owns the land.

Everyone who has followed the smooth rush of the miles through a pleasant countryside knows how quickly and effectually an atmosphere of prosperity and well-being can be dissipated by an ill-concealed trash dump or a tumble-down shed clothed in tattered posters.

The doctrine of looking well, of keeping up a front, is not hokum by any means. We live pretty much with one another these days; and as humanity grows more interdependent, what the rest of the world thinks of a man or of a community becomes proportionally more important. Then, too, there is the matter of self-respect. A region which has about it a dejected, frayed-out look seldom belies its appearance. Prosperity and state of mind are rather closely linked, and state of mind in turn is dependent to a considerable degree upon external appearances.

There is a pecuniary as well as an aesthetic value in a spruce, smiling countryside. The Missouri Farm Bureau Federation is encouraging a move whose results eventually will show up in the ledger's profit column.—Reprinted by permission of The Country Gentleman, copyrighted 1929 by The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Health Hint

It is extremely unwise to neglect a cough. If ordinary remedies fail it is always best to consult a physician for a chest examination to see whether the inflammation is spreading. Why court the possibilities of lung trouble?

Example of Saving

If you want to learn to save, watch your friends with money. They are the ones who have worked out the short cuts.—American Magazine.

THINGS OF INTEREST FOUND IN OLD LAWS

Legislative Acts of 1865, '66 and '67 Contain Much Unknown to Presentday Citizen. Several Had to Do with Things about Grenada. Number of Charters Granted. President Johnson Commended. Special Federal Tax on Mississippi of Over $400,000.

In looking through "Mississippi Laws", or sheet acts of the legislatures of 1865, '66 and '67, many interesting things are seen, things no doubt that fully 90 per cent of the oldest citizens have forgotten and that, outside of the bar, hardly half of one per cent of those of the present generation ever knew.

Among many other things, it is noted in the Acts of 1865 that the following appears in reference to Grenada:

Be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Mississippi, That all the rights, and privileges and franchise granted under an act to incorporate the East Ward of Grenada Ferry and Turnpike, approved Jan. 31, 1852, be, and the same is hereby revived and granted to Thomas D. Shearman, of the county of Yalobusha, who is hereby established a company and corporation for the term of 15 years after passage of this Act, approved Nov. 11, 1865.

An Act was approved November 3, 1865 to extend the corporate limits of Grenada and reads as follows: That the corporate limits of the town of Grenada, in the county of Yalobusha, be and they are hereby extended so to include the N. E. quarter of Sec. 8, in township 22, range 5, east, also that portion of the north half of section 17, in township and range aforesaid, lying west of the Mississippi Central Railroad and said railroad north of S. M. Hankin's land, and west of Abatuponbogoe creek.

Other guests Tuesday were Mr. Williams, cotton man who recently moved here, and Mr. Alfred Fielding, of Meridian.

POLICE RIGHT TO PERMIT PARKING IS QUESTIONED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—The Supreme Court of the United States is asked to determine the constitutionality of a police parking rule in Providence, R. I.

A statement in support of the jurisdiction of the court has just been filed in the case of Allen & Reed, Inc. vs. Presbrey et al., No. 206. The police placed signs reading "60 Minute Parking—Police Department," upon the streets. Owners of property in front of which the signs were placed objected.

The regulation, the brief contends, invites and permits, continuous parking and obstructs proper access to the premises by the property owners and those having business with them, and greatly hamper, the conduct of their business.

The appellants' rights, as abutting owners, in and to the street are substantially extinguished, the brief contends, by successively "parked" vehicles. This, the brief declares, deprives the owner of the full enjoyment of the property in violation of the Constitution of the State of Rhode Island and of the Constitution of the United States.

ONE DIVORCE FOR EVERY TEN MARRIAGES IN STATE

Washington, D. C.—The Department of Commerce announces that, according to the returns received, there were 30,263 marriages performed in Mississippi during the year 1928, as compared with 29,641 in 1927, representing an increase of 622 or 2.1 per cent. In 1916 there were 23,927 marriages performed.

During the year 1928 there were 3,007 divorces granted in the state. (Continued on page 4)

Davis county, no longer exists.

There are now 82 counties. To the above list have been added: Grenada; Montgomery; Leflore; Quitman; Tate; Union; Prentiss; Calhoun; Webster; Leake; Jones; Jefferson; Davis; George; Pearl River; Forest; Humphreys; Stone; Lincoln; Jones; Alcorn; Sharkey; Walhalla; Lamar and Clay.

A number of legislative Acts shows that the lawmaking body had its biggest problem in the conditions brought about by the liberation of the slaves and the trend of events at Washington City. The members of the legislature undoubtedly proceeded with the best lights before them, and doubtless if the same matters were presented to the present generation, with all of its boasted progress and development, it would not meet and handle the questions of that day with the wisdom and sagacity shown by those of that period.

ARY PROGRAM VARIED

A regular weekly luncheon of the Grenada Rotary Club Tuesday, program as planned had to be postponed on account of the absence of the speaker, but various matters of the hour most enjoyably.

Upon a motion by A. M. Carothers, it was unanimously decided to request the American Railway Express Co. to maintain its uptown office for the convenience of the general public and especially the people from the rural communities. W. B. Hoffa and P. T. LaGrone were named on a committee with Mr. Carothers to prepare resolution, petitioning the express company to not abandon the office.

The secretary, C. H. Calhoun, announced that, beginning next week, a register would be kept at the entrance to the club room where each member might record his presence at the meeting and also place the names of visitors.

B. H. Campbell, of Meridian, here to assist The Grenada Sentinel in issuing its Fair and Progress Edition, announced last week in this paper, spoke for a few minutes, outlining the purpose of the paper and telling of the good that it is hoped Grenada and this section will derive therefrom.

W. D. Boone, in his always delightful way, entertained the club with two songs, to an accompaniment at the piano by the gracious Mrs. E. G. Mohler.

Rotarian Dave Cowart, of Charleston, spoke for a few minutes on the beauty of Grenada and the progress it had made within the past quarter of a century. He paid a high tribute to the citizenship of the town and to the splendid work the Rotary Club is doing here.

Rev. Melville Johnson, of Winona, formerly a Grenada Rotarian and one of the organizers, and charter member, of the club, talked briefly of the advantages of Winona and of the high regard the people of that city hold for Grenadians.

Other guests Tuesday were Mr. Williams, cotton man who recently moved here, and Mr. Alfred Fielding, of Meridian.

TIE PLANT HOST TO ILLINOIS VISITORS

Local Ayer & Lord Plant Entertains Visitors from Company Plant in Carbondale Last Saturday and Sunday. Thrilling Ball Game Followed by Barbecue. Many Officials Here from Carbondale, Chicago and Memphis. Similar Event Planned for Next Year.

To more strongly cement the already friendly relations existing between officials and employees of the two plants, the Ayer & Lord Tie Co. plant south of Grenada, Mo., last Saturday and Sunday, entertained visitors from the company's plant at Carbondale, Ill. The Carbondale delegation arrived early Saturday morning in a special car, and all day Saturday and Sunday they were the recipients of many courtesies at the hands of Tie Plant citizens. Ayer & Lord and Illinois Central officials were here from Carbondale, Chicago and Memphis.

At three o'clock Saturday afternoon the company baseball team from Carbondale met the local Ayer & Lord team and went down in defeat after twelve innings of thrilling and exciting baseball, the final score being 7 to 6. Carbondale's pitching ace, Parrott, who has pitched several shut-outs during the season, went in the box for the visitors, opposing Slick Cooper for the locals. Parrott struck out nineteen men and walked three while Cooper fanned ten and passed one.

Cooper, Garner, Perry and Province starred for the locals while Parrott, Stewart and Richardson starred for the visitors.

At the conclusion of the game, Chas. Easterly, mayor of Carbondale, presented a handsome silver trophy, the gift of A. W. Armstrong, Ayer & Lord president and general manager, to the winning team. Engraved on the trophy are the words "Ayer & Lord Champions, 1929".

The box score of the game appears on another page of this issue. To conclude the day's entertainment a wonderfully prepared barbecue dinner, of which J. J. Nichols, superintendent, and E. B. Lewis, assistant superintendent, of the local plant, were in charge, was served to the visitors and guests. Barbecued chicken and mutton and Brunswick stew were the main items and that the spread was thoroughly enjoyed was attested by the havoc wrought by the hungry men. Several Grenadians were guests at the dinner.

The entire program arranged for the visitors was most carefully planned and most perfectly carried out. Nothing was left undone to make their brief stay in the southland a most enjoyable one.

Those here from a distance for the affair were: Chas. Easterly, mayor of Carbondale; A. S. Johnson, merchant, Dr. E. H. Hoffman, veterinarian, J. P. Dan- Vogler, Ford dealer, Nile and Odie Huffman, undertakers, J. P. Daniels, merchant, Chas. Wiley, merchant, Mike Albon, merchant, R. W. Holmes, C. & N. W. Railway, J. E. Osman, Grand Trunk Railway, Fred Schutte, merchant; and J. A. Cooper, Bebe Trece, Pat McGowan, W. H. Martin and M. T. Smith, of the Ayer & Lord Tie Co., all of Carbondale; H. W. Herbert, I. C. R. R. Co., Chicago; C. S. Burt and C. S. Sizemore, I. C. R. R. Co., Memphis; O. L. Massey, Ayer & Lord Tie Co., Memphis; J. E. Grennan and H. C. Busch, Ayer & Lord Tie Co., Chicago; B. E. Holcomb, and A. M. Smith, Ayer & Lord Tie Co., Little Rock, Ark.

FAIR AND PROGRESS EDITION MEETS ENCOURAGEMENT.

As work on the preparation of The Grenada Sentinel's Fair & Progress Edition goes forward two things are becoming more apparent—that the scope of its interest is widening and that its endorsers among local business men are multiplying.

Mention was made in a previous issue of The Sentinel of the character and wide range of subject matter which would be published in the pages of this edition. It is the object of the publisher to place before the reading public those facts of the building of Grenada and its surrounding territory, those facts of the origin and development of the industries which have so largely contributed to this building, and those facts of natural resources and manifold facilities which still have been untouched in this great belt and which hold untold possibilities of great returns.

Acting on this belief The Sentinel feels that if such matter is presented to the public there will come an awakening and an expansion which, in the natural course of events, must result in a greater Grenada.

The result of The Sentinel's effort so far has been most gratifying. It has brought forth expressions of much praise for the public spirited objective of the Fair & Progress Edition from men high in national affairs, in the professions, and the representatives of various business enterprises.

In the columns of The Fair & Progress Edition there will appear, it is hoped, articles from the pens of U. S. Senators Pat Harrison and Hubert D. Stephens, the Honorable Jeff Busby, member of the U. S. House of Representatives, and many local residents. Most of them have expressed high endorsement of The Sentinel's effort and the desire to contribute to the success of an edition devoted to the interests and advancement of Grenada and Grenada County.

In like manner has a wide endorsement and backing come from men of the local business and professional fields, who have expressed the same willingness to become participants in this great effort to further the progress of the community.

Summing the progress of the preparations to date, the indications are that The Sentinel's Fair & Progress Edition will be one of the greatest mediums for telling the story of past progress and future promise which this section of Mississippi has ever experienced.

GRENADA SWEEPS SERIES

Grenada last Thursday took the second of a three game series from Senatobia by the score of 3 to 1. After the first inning when he allowed two hits, Peoples steadied down and was master of the situation throughout. Errors contributed largely to two of Grenada's tallies. Each pitcher fanned eleven men.

Score: R H E
Senatobia 100 000 000—1 3 6
Grenada 010 010 10x—3 5 2
M. Moore and Morris; Peoples and Bingham.

Friday Grenada made a clean sweep of the series by taking the third game, a comedy of errors which developed into a burlesque, by the score of 11 to 5.

JUDGE WRIGHT LEAVES FOR MOBILE TOMORROW

Judge D. S. Wright is spending today in Grenada with his mother and will return to Greenwood tomorrow to leave for Mobile, Alabama where he will locate.

There is no man in Greenwood who is held in higher esteem or has any more friends than Donald Wright. He is a Christian gentleman and a young man of sterling trait, of character, and while they hate to give him up his friends wish for him all that is good in his new home town and predict for him a most promising future.—Greenwood Commonwealth, Aug. 22.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE BEGINS MONDAY FOR GRENADA HIGH

The Sentinel has been requested by Coach J. C. Hathorn, of the Grenada High School, to announce that football practice will begin next Monday, Sept. 2. Equipment will be issued at 10:00 a. m. and 2:00 p. m. Coach Hathorn states that he hopes a large number of boys will take advantage of this pre-season practice.

and local Ayer & Lord officials and employees have every reason to feel proud of the way they succeeded in their efforts.

A similar event is planned for next year at which time the Tie Plant people will be guests of the Carbondale plant.

Those here from a distance for the affair were: Chas. Easterly, mayor of Carbondale; A. S. Johnson, merchant, Dr. E. H. Hoffman, veterinarian, J. P. Dan- Vogler, Ford dealer, Nile and Odie Huffman, undertakers, J. P. Daniels, merchant, Chas. Wiley, merchant, Mike Albon, merchant, R. W. Holmes, C. & N. W. Railway, J. E. Is Grenada destined to grow larger and greater?
It has been said—"Destiny lies within thyself". If that applies to individuals, so must it with equal force bespeak the future of a community.

Grenada can be no exception and The Sentinel, in its approaching publication of The Fair & Progress Edition, is going to be at least a stepping stone by which she can claim her rightful heritage in greater limits, greater activities and greater prosperity.

Many things combine to foster the growth of a community. Capital must be applied in order to create industries. They may exist in many forms, but none can function without payrolls. And payrolls demand mercantile establishments, the services of the various professions, churches, schools and amusements.

If those industries are successful others must follow. Come more payrolls and more people, comes a greater demand for more mercantile houses, more professional men and women, more churches, schools and amusements.

The industries which have been created in Gre-nada's growth have been successful because her facilities have been attractive and have supported her claims.
Like the growth of a business venture she has added step after step. She has progressed surely, even though slowly; and she has much to offer for a progression equally as sound but much more rapidly. It just remains for the telling of that which she holds as opportunities and Grenada's citizens, acting as the guiding hand of a great and wide-awake business venture, are joining in a mutual effort to proclaim those opportunities.

It was for this purpose that The Sentinel's Fair & Progress Edition was conceived, and the support which is daily being given it by local business and professional men and women is very gratifying. It speaks of the fact that they want progression, of their intention to grasp an opportunity which has never been equalled in the past for the advertising in such a broad manner of the natural and undeveloped resources of the Grenada district.

Provisions which The Sentinel is making for an immense circulation of The Fair & Progress Edition will insure a tremendous wave of publicity for Grenada and Grenada County. In addition to the distribution to a national list of business and professional bodies and homeseekers, the fact that The Fair & Progress Edition will pass to thousands of friends of local residents, who reside in all parts of the United States, will insure that most powerful of publicity methods—advertisement by word of mouth.

In a word Grenada, and Grenada County shall be talked of—and favorably.

GOV. BILBO BOTH RIGHT AND WRONG.

Gov. Bilbo is absolutely correct in holding that the commissioners for erecting the new insane hospital exceeded their authority, but he is wrong in holding that the work should be suspended because his administration does not control the commission.

This thing of boards of trustees and commissions absolutely disregarding legislative or other mandates in making contracts for public work beyond what has been appropriated, or voted by the people, is a most pernicious policy, and should be rebuked by those providing the funds.

It is the business of trustees and commissions to make no plans beyond the funds provided. Trustees and commissions should be amenable for the extra cost where they make contracts that exceed the money provided.

In the instant case, the buildings stand there little more than half completed, hence it is a case of providing more money or losing what has already been expended.

The funds appropriated for the new hospital should have erected one consonant with the pride and purse of the state. Yet we are told that much of what has been done, especially on the grounds, reminds one of Oriental gardens. However, the commission in this case has but done what has been repeatedly done in Mississippi in such instances many, many times before. Architects are too frequently largely to blame for getting boards and commissions to enter into contracts which require more money than is provided.

But there is no charge of graft or crookedness against the commission. They are high class gentlemen and men in every way worthy of public confidence. So far as our knowledge goes, none of them is seeking any glory by what is done as a member of the insane hospital building commission. The worst that can be said of their acts as commissioners is that they played the state a bad business trick and exercised mighty poor judgment.
We see nothing in the Governor's contention that he should have a majority of his friends on the commission.
Nor do we put much credence to the oft-repeated story of the "horrible conditions" at the present hospital. If that is true now it has been true for years, and therefore somebody has been criminally careless and indifferent and is today.

The new hospital has been projected and if not finished by this administration, it will be by the next, hence it is sound business to provide the funds now.

If Gov. Bilbo is correct in stating that there is now available $750,000. of the initial funds, we cannot understand why the work has been stopped until that is absorbed. Three quarters of a million is an immense amount of money to Mississippians.

Out of the experience of erecting a new insane hospital, should come legislation penalizing trustees and commissions for not planning and building as those contemplated from whom they get their authority and by or through whom the money comes.

Nevertheless it is wise to let this work go forward now.

"DO IT NOW", SAYS THIS METHODIST.

The Sentinel received the following, among several other letters, touching the same matter since the publication of last week's issue. It was written by one of the most scholarly men in Southern Methodism and a lifelong member of the Methodist church. The letter was not written for publication but it shoots so straight at the heart of the matter relative to the allegations against Bishop Cannon as a churchman and as a prelate in the Methodist church, which has been such a powerful factor in leading the citizenship of this country, even before the government was formed, along the lines of right living and in standing for those things so sublimely taught in the Sermon on the Mount, that we are passing it along to our readers. Assuredly every man is entitled to his opinion:

It seems that the Grenada Methodist church is running on a hot box. This is in reality merely the onward march of democracy - not necessarily Democracy. The lowly man, the average man, is growing smart. They are becoming more critical and are using their reasoning faculties just a little more. "The King can do no wrong" is a theory that passed out of fashion some century or two ago. Even among Catholics "The Pope can do no wrong" is really held to by only a few, though the Catholic church still keeps the declaration in its Canon.

Now, I have never seen Bishop Cannon's statement and defense of what he has done relative to buying stock, and as to using church funds for other purposes than that for which the collection was made. I should like to know the facts of what he has done. I could then decide as to whether I would declare him GUILTY of wrong.
If what information I have is FACT, then I can not see otherwise than that he is very WRONG. I understand that he claims to have bought stocks on the installment plan. That might be all right, if that is what he was doing; but how do I know that what he calls "buying on the installment plan" was not buying on margin? Did he continue to pay the installments on his stock when his installments were wiped away by the decline of the stock he was paying on, or did he continue to pay his installments, right on? Or, when he was buying a stock on installment plan and his stock went above his payments, did he keep paying till he had paid the stock out or did he sell and take his profits? I should simply like to know the FACTS. Then, too, how was he so long ACQUAINTED ED and even INTIMATE with the organizer of the so-called brokerage house and did not know about his reputation? From what I have seen, it actually seems that he was almost "in" on the organization of the company.

I should like to know whether he borrowed the Temperance Board's money. If he did, he had no right to do it and the Board had no right to loan it to him. O gosh!
What are the facts? Do you know them? I certainly can not see why the church should not go thoroughly into the matter and do it NOW. Why wait till the General Conference?

The fact is that the little folks are beginning to say on all matters: "Don't say don't, to me unless you are going to don't yourself." And, "Don't say DO to me unless you are going to DO yourself." If I were a poet, I should write a song with the title "Don't say 'Don't' to me, if you Aint a-goin' to Don't yourself". And, then another "Don't say 'DO' to me, if you ain't a-goin' to DO yourself".

O well, such is life.

KEEP THE EXPRESS OFFICE UP TOWN.

The American Railway Express Company is having its periodical spurt, just now, it seems, to move the Grenada office of the company from uptown down to the depot. To do this would show mighty little regard for the wishes and the convenience of the general public.
While we appreciate that the telephone has largely made it unnecessary for one in Grenada to go in person often to the express office, at times it is necessary, and when it is, it is in most cases an emergency. Why then should the patrons of the office be made to trudge to the depot and back? But for those who patronize the express office, it could earn no money; furthermore, regardless of whatever convenience it may be to the public, whenever it ceases to make money in Grenada, you may bet your last dollar that it will close up business and, like the Arab, steal away.

The uptown office is perhaps the greatest convenience to the country people, many of whom still use wagons and buggies. The average horse or mule is afraid of trains and is more or less unmanageable amidst the noise around a depot, especially one where there is as much noise as there is in Grenada. So, aside from what the uptown office means to the citizenship of Grenada, it is still more important to the people from the country.

We therefore urge the Railroad Commission to turn a deaf ear to any request of the American Railway Express Co. to close its uptown office in Grenada. To do so, would be as a slap in the face to the citizenship of the town.

RELIGIOUS MURDER IN PALESTINE.

There is being perpetrated in this the year of our Lord, 1929, religious murder in the Holy Land. There is nothing that will arouse man so much as the religion he professes. Men decry religion and many try to undervalue it and often ridicule it, yet it is the thing above all others that will make men willing to lay their heads on the executioner's block, if necessary. This very fact is the very best proof that man believes in a hereafter.

There are said to be 60,000 Jews in Palestine. The Arabs, Moslems or Mohammedans, surround them on every side by the many thousands.

The immediate cause of the mob-like warfare in progress was that the Arabs were given permission to start building work near the remnant of the old Temple, closing the Wailing Wall, the place the Jews go to wail about the destruction of the Temple, more than 1800 years ago. The Jews feel, and they are everywhere except in the United States and Great Britain, that they are still an oppressed people. Their religious history is written in persecution and blood.

Great Britain exercises a suzerainty over Palestine and may be counted on to restore order at an early day.

MEN AND WOMEN TEACHERS.

There is no sound reason for paying men teachers more than women. This is the conclusion reached by Dr. James R. McGaughy, professor of education in Columbia University, after a study of salary schedules and educational standards around the country.

"Men," he says, "are not better teachers. They do not render more valuable service. Even if they have more dependents, that is not a sound argument for paying them higher salaries."

Women are naturally preferred for the lower grades. They usually handle small children better than men do, and have more patience with them. Men will readily admit that. But men seem to be preferred for the higher grades, in spite of the verdict that women are just as good.

Economic equality for the sexes moves slowly.— Hattiesburg American.

DON'T, DON'T, MR. LEGISLATOR.

Mr. Legislator, don't be swept off your feet because of the revelations alleged against Rush Knox and Cecil Inman, and vote to offer a premium to the tax dodger by repealing every law that offers a premium to the officer ferreting out tax evasions and forcing the evader to come up to the lick log. Talk until you are black in the face about what an officer ought to do without the apprehending fee, but it won't work, will not now and never has. Men holding office are just human beings.
To search out the tax evader is not a pleasant duty, hence there must be some extra incentive to prompt officers to grab the tax dodger.

As we have repeatedly stated heretofore, the back tax man, or by whatever name he may be called, should be more circumscribed in his activities and the time limit should be less.

whatever the road or weather

One of the outstanding advantages of the Dodge Six is the sense of security it brings to driver and passengers. No matter what the road or traffic condition, this sturdy car insures maximum safety and protection with a body of typical Dodge strength and rigidity. This body is built inflexibly onto the chassis in such a way that the center of gravity is exceptionally low. And also you always have the complete security of Dodge Six 4-wheel hydraulic brakes—positively equalized—internal-expanding—absolutely weatherproof.

tions, one from the north, one from the west and another from the south.
 Both the northern and southern divisions have numerous steam generating stations available for emergency use. The largest of these plants are located at Greenville, Fernwood, Jackson and Vicksburg.
 Construction is now under way on a gigantic hydro-electric generating station, known as the Carpenter Dam, and located above the Rempel Dam in the Ouachita River. When completed, this project will represent an investment of over six million dollars and will be directly connected with the interconnected power system of the Mississippi Power & Light Company. This will provide another source from which this company can secure electric power. Plans that will, when complete, give another source of power to the transmission system of the Mississippi Power & Light Company are under consideration and details will be released in the near future.
 Construction plans are made years in advance by the modern public utility and the construction in November, 1928 of a thirty-seven mile, 110,000 volt transmission line connecting Greenwood and Durant, was the first step towards realizing the present sixty-one mile project and the complete interconnection of this company's transmission systems. The Greenwood-Durant line was considered an outstanding development and brought interconnected power and light to Lexington, West, Vaiden, Goodman, Pickens and Sallis.

 When this Durant-Jackson line is completed in November of this year, the western half of Mississippi, which is the territory in which the Mississippi Power & Light Company operates, will have an unlimited supply of electric light and power available from one or all of the many sources of power which this company has provided that its service may be continuous and dependable.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By virtue of the provisions of a deed of trust, executed by Bishop and Emma Hoke on the 12th day of January, 1929, to secure the payment of a certain indebtedness due to J. E. Enderlin, described in said deed and which deed is recorded in the chancery clerk's office of Grenada county, Mississippi, in Mtg. & T. D. book No. 65 at page 602, default having been made in the payment of said indebtedness, I, the undersigned substituted trustee, said substitution appearing of record in said book No. 65 at page 602 and 603, at the request of C.

E. Lockett, holder of said indebtedness by assignment, will proceed to sell the following property, conveyed under said deed, at the east door of the court house of said county, within legal hours, on the 31st day of August, 1929, at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash, to wit:

Part of lot 31, Green Crowder Survey, West Ward of the City of Grenada, county of Grenada, state of Mississippi, and described as beginning 50 feet north of south-west corner of said lot 31, thence running north along Plum Street 50 feet, thence east 100 feet, thence south 50 feet, thence west 100 feet to point of beginning; and all other interest which the said Bishop and Emma Hoke, have in said lot 31.

 I believe title to this property is good, I sell and convey, however, only as trustee. This the 7th day of August, 1929.

Smiling Loreco Service, backed up by Loreco Premium gasolines and motor oils, is now being served by familiar faces at the new Loreco stations.

Rounding out its state-wide distribution and service, the Louisiana Oil Corporation (a resident of Mississippi) has taken over the stations of Panhandle Oil Company in Grenada.

Motorists here now have the opportunity to get acquainted with a new premium gasoline refined from petroleum specially live in natural anti-knock value sold no higher than straight run gasoline.

Loreco Gasoline is sweeping across the South in popularity. Of equal high quality is Loreco Ethyl Gasoline.

Loreco Motor Oils are specially processed for Southern driving conditions.

Behind these three premium products is Smiling Loreco Service. This service, identified by the sign of the red and white diamonds, is well known throughout all parts of the State. And Loreco Service is rapidly becoming state-wide.

TRANSMISSION LINES IN OPERATION — LINES NOW UNDER CONSTRUCTION ---

61 MILE TRANSMISSION LINE ANNOUNCED BY POWER CO.

The construction of a sixty-one mile, 110,000 volt electric transmission line connecting Jackson and Durant is announced today by L. V. Sutton, vice-president and general manager of the Mississippi Power & Light Company, who states that plans have been perfected and that construction is now actually under way on this new line that will tie together the company's substations at Jackson and Durant, Mississippi and form the first connection in Mississippi between the northern and southern systems of this company. Extra equipment will be installed at Jackson and Durant to provide for this interconnection and a large crew of men is now at work clearing right of way that construction work may not be delayed.
 The construction of this line, which will interconnect the entire transmission system of the Mississippi Power & Light Company, is of vital importance to the citizens of the two hundred or more cities, towns and communities served by this company. It is one of the outstanding developments in the electrical expansion of Mississippi and gives the entire western half of the state a modern co-ordinated interconnected power system.
 The southern system of this company consists of the territory south from Jackson and Vicksburg and now receives electric power from the great 134,000 H. P. Sterling steam electric generating station at Sterlington, Louisiana. This energy is transmitted into Mississippi over a 110,000 volt transmission line that crosses the Mississippi River at Vicksburg and runs east to Jackson and thence south to the state line at Osyka. This line supplies electric light and power to Jackson, Vicksburg, Hazlehurst, Brookhaven, McComb and numerous other towns and communities in that territory. At this time Jackson and the southern system of Mississippi Power & Light Company receive power from one high line, which connects with the Sterlington steam electric station. This new sixty-one mile line will give to Jackson and the southern territory a second high line and make it possible for this section to receive power from any one, or all, of the company's different sources of power supply.

 The northern system embraces the Mississippi delta and the territory north from Durant along the Illinois Central Railway. This section receives electric power over another 110,000 volt transmission line that crosses the Mississippi River at Greenville. This line brings energy from the Rempel hydro-electric generating station in Arkansas and from the Sterlington station in Louisiana. The northern system is also tied in with the Memphis steam electric generating station. This northern territory receives power at this time over two high lines, one connecting with Memphis and another with Arkansas and the construction of this new line will give this section three high line connections.

Neal-West.

A wedding of outstanding interest to their large circle of friends was solemnized in Rome Sunday evening, August 25, at 7:30 o'clock at the Methodist church between Miss Grace West, of Rome, and Mr. Percy Neal, of Grenada and Starkville. The Rev. N. J. Golding, of Jonestown, performed the impressive ring ceremony.

The church, which had been artistically decorated with garden flowers, palms and smilax was truly lovely in the soft light from the pink tapers burning in candleabra.

Miss Agnes Mansfield had charge of the nuptial music. Two beautiful solos, "I Love You Truly" and "Because" were sung by Miss Elizabeth Kealhofer, of Blaine, Miss.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Jack Stockett, of Clarksdale, who wore a model of orchid georgette and Miss Sallie May Atkinson, of Vance, who wore green georgette.

The maid of honor, Miss Mary Prince, of Vance, was gowned in blue georgette. All carried arm bouquets of sweetheart roses.

The groomsmen were Mr. Charles West, brother of the bride, and Mr. Jack Stockett, of Clarksdale. Mr. William Gerard, of Grenada and Sardis attended the groom as best man.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, was preceded by a dainty flower girl, little Miss Martha Yvonne Betts, of Caledonia, who wore flesh colored georgette.

Mrs. Neal, who is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. West, of Rome, formerly attended M. S. C. W. at Columbus.

For her wedding she wore an exquisite model of flesh chiffon over satin. Her veil was caught with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. After the ceremony she changed to a handsome traveling suit of African brown with harmonizing accessories.

The groom is the only son of Mrs. Grady Triplett, of Grenada. He is a young man of splendid integrity and sterling character. Since his graduation from A. and M. College at Starkville he has been employed as an instructor in that institution. He is a member of the Beta Kappa fraternity.

After a honeymoon trip to the Mississippi coast, Mobile, Ala. and Pensacola, Fla., the happy couple will be at home to their friends after September 6 in Starkville.

The Sentinel offers congratulations and best wishes.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. John Brown Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Triplett and daughter, Alice Lee, and Miss Ruth Hunter, of Grenada; Little Miss Sarah Martha Landrum, of McCool; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pickett, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Betts and Miss Agnes Egger, of Caledonia; Mrs. Kealhofer, of Blaine.

Mrs. Deak Has Club.

Mrs. Roy Deak was hostess to her bridge club last week. A number of friends who are not club members were privileged to share her hospitality: Mrs. Jack Roane, of Iuka, Mrs. W. C. Trotter, of Jackson, Mrs. Paul Gerard, of Cleveland, Mrs. R. C. Trusty, Mrs. Bruce Newsom, Mrs. E. L. Bass, Miss Daisy Leigh Roane, Miss Juliette Deak and Miss Hallie Ezgleston, of Carrollton.

To each of the out of town guests, Mrs. Deak presented a lovely memento of the occasion. Mrs. Donald Sharp won high score prize, a pretty colored glass bowl. During the games delicious punch was enjoyed and later frozen plum pudding and cake were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porch left last Friday morning for Waverly, Tenn. to visit relatives.

Miss Helen Duncan Wilkins returned last Saturday from a most delightful European tour. She left Thursday for D'Lo, Miss., where she has accepted a position as home economics teacher in the high school there.

Miss Mary McCaslin left last week to visit in Auburn, Ala. before going to Claxton, Ala. where she is to teach during the coming school session.

Mr. J. N. Collins' friends will be glad to know he is convalescing after a rather serious illness.

Mrs. Alney McLean and children returned last week from a visit with relatives in Senatobia.

Mrs. V. A. Weir, of Falcon, Miss., left Tuesday after a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. Alney McLean.

Mrs. Hubert Tatum and daughter, Sarah Jane, returned Saturday from Memphis where they visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peacock. Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Peacock stopped in Grenada to visit them as they were on their way to Greenville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bass and two sons, of Gadsden, Ala., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bass.

Mrs. E. L. Bass spent Friday of last week in Oxford. Her attractive daughter, Martha Vance Smith who had been visiting relatives there accompanied her home.

Mrs. J. H. Oliver has, as her guests her sisters, Mrs. A. D. McCaughy, of Chicago, and Mrs. B. F. Toler, of Jackson.

Mrs. Leslie J. Pittman, who has been quite ill, is staying at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hubert Lamson, so that she can receive expert medical attention.

Miss Rowena Betz has returned from a vacation trip to Memphis where she was the guest of friends.

Miss Miriam Peal, of Holly Springs, has been visiting Mrs. J. N. Provine.

Mrs. A. R. Dockery has as her guest her niece, Dorothy Hall, of Nashville.

Miss Virginia Jane Bass returned Tuesday from Kentucky and Tennessee where she has been visiting the greater part of the summer.

Miss Fay Easterling returned Tuesday from Jackson, where she had been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Easterling. Her friend, Miss Dorothy Slocum, of Jackson, accompanied her home and remained for the rest of the week as her guest.

Mrs. L. E. Thrash and Mrs. H. M. Johnson spent Sunday in Greenwood with friends and relatives.

Mrs. E. L. Bass spent Monday and Tuesday in Memphis as the guest of Mrs. Dick Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dubard, of Greenwood, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Huffington. Mrs. Annie McDonald, also of Greenwood, visited Mrs. J. E. Huffington and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wright, of West Point, and Judge Donald Wright, of Mobile, were the guests of their mother, Mrs. Genie Wright.

Mr. Clifton Lomax, of Greenwood, spent Monday and Tuesday in Grenada with Messrs. David Young and Lewis Dubard.

Mrs. B. J. Anderson and children, Allen, Annie and Brannon, Dr. Mr. W. M. Dubard and Mr. David Young Dubard went to Tupelo to see Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hinds and family.

Mr. B. J. Anderson entertained with a small but enjoyable picnic Wednesday afternoon at Dubard. Only her children and members of the Dubard families were present.

Additional Locals

Mrs. J. N. Provine returned to Jackson Monday with her husband, Hon. J. N. Provine, Grenada county's representative in the lower house of the Mississippi legislature. Mrs. Provine has made several trips to Jackson during the present extraordinary session of the legislature, and some of Jim's friends have felt a bit apprehensive for him lest Mrs. Provine might drop in at the Capital without Mr. Provine's knowing it. Without even intimating that anybody would think that Jim might play "goo-goo eyes" with any of the fair ladies in or around the legislature, nevertheless it is realized that he can do the Chesterfieldian with all the elegance of the best of that class of a former generation, hence The Sentinel thinks that it is well for his elegant and lovely wife to keep an eye on him so that he might not even think of the charms of any of the fair ones that lend their presence to legislative halls. What The Sentinel has in mind is a sort of secret on Mr. Provine and it desires that all his friends keep the matter just as this paper is trying to do.

Dr. and Mrs. Wm. P. Ferguson had the pleasure last Saturday and Sunday of having their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Carson, of Los Angeles, with them. Mr. and Mrs. Carson are making this trip by rail and their Grenada visit was one of their stop-overs, in an extended tour of the east and north during which they expect to visit Washington City, Atlantic City, New York and Philadelphia, thence into the New England states and through Canada and back into the United States in the northwest where they will take in the scenery of Yellowstone Park and other places of world interest in that section. They plan to reach home again about November 1.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sisk and sweet little daughter, Cherry, expect to leave the first of next week for Durant where they will make their future home. Mr. Sisk having accepted a position as manager of a large wholesale house there. During their residence here the Sisks have endeared themselves to all who have got to know them and the best wishes of their many friends will follow them to their new place of abode.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Holcomb, of Little Rock, Ark., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Nichols and family at Tie Plant.

Miss Cynthia Belle Oswald left last Sunday to spend two weeks in Tusculum, visiting her aunt, Mrs. W. P. Knight.

as compared with 2,893 in 1927, representing an increase of 114 or 3.9 per cent. In 1916, there were 1,893 divorces granted. There were 3 marriages annulled in 1928, as compared with 8 in 1927.

The population of Mississippi at the time of the census in 1920 was 1,790,618, and since this figure represented a decrease, as compared with 1910, no estimates have been made for subsequent years.

On the basis of the 1920 census figure for population, the number of marriages in Mississippi per 1,000 of the population was 16.9 in 1928, as against 16.6 in 1927, and the number of divorces per 1,000 of the population was 1.68 in 1928 as against 1.62 in 1927.

The number of marriages performed and the number of divorces and annulments granted were furnished by the State Board of Health. The figures for 1928 are preliminary and subject to correction.

MID-SOUTH FAIR BOOKS TOM MIX

Auto Races On Opening Day Program

TOM MIX, super-star of the movies, hero of all American boys, whether they are seven or seventy, and just as popular with feminine audiences, is coming to Memphis for the Mid-South Fair. He is bringing with him his famous horse, Tony. Together they will be the headline attractions on the final day of the fair, Saturday, Oct. 5, appearing in person on the afternoon program at 2 o'clock and the night program at 8 o'clock.

Audiences that will smash to smithereens all previous attendance records at the fair will be on hand to greet them.

The appearance of Tom Mix and Tony climaxes the best entertainment program ever booked by a Southern Fair. It starts off with plenty of whoopee on the opening day when spectacular auto races are on the afternoon grandstand program. Usually the auto races are held on the final day of the fair, but the change in program, due to the appearance of Tom Mix, will give the speed fans the chance to get their thrills a week earlier on the opening day.

The world's best drivers and fastest cars are booked for the Auto Races.

Harness races will be on the afternoon program daily from Monday, Sept. 30 through Friday, Oct. 4. The afternoon and evening programs will include band concerts and the best array of vaudeville acts ever presented at the annual fair.

County exhibits at the Mid-South Fair, Sept. 28-Oct. 5, will be judged by the public. Visitors to the Agricultural Building will be requested to vote on the merits of the different exhibits. Cards will be furnished on which to write their opinions, signing their names and addresses. These cards will be filed with the superintendent of the department.

Prizes will be awarded to the exhibits receiving the greatest number of votes. Prizes will also be awarded to the visitor whose four votes correspond with the final awards on exhibit.

Prizes will be awarded on four features. First, exhibit having the most attractive general appearance; second, exhibit creating greatest general interest; third, exhibit having greatest educational value; fourth, exhibit putting across its idea in a way to be most readily understood.

The county exhibits will be planned and executed by the County agricultural and home economics agents. In former years the exhibits have been on agricultural lines alone. Restrictions this year have been removed, and the kind and class of exhibit will be left entirely to the ingenuity of the agents. Exhibits, however, should carry out the idea of the program work being done in the county.

Among the subjects that will be presented in county exhibits are the following: health work; 4-H Club work; permanent pastures; co-operative marketing; home improvement and beautification; general county advancement.

Beef Breeds Will Compete At Fair

The leading stock farms in America, whose owners have spent their time and money building up fine herds of beef cattle, will be represented at the Mid-South Fair. During the last two years when the National Dairy Show was held in Memphis, beef cattle exhibits were eliminated owing to lack of room. This year fine herds from many states will again be on display.

Public To Judge County Exhibits

Miss Bailey Honors Visitors.

Miss Isabel Bailey was the charming hostess Monday afternoon at a bridge party honoring three visitors in the city, Miss Mary Leona Morris, Miss Lucile Fedric and Miss Elizabeth Keeler. Variegated flowers placed in artistic arrangement about the rooms lent added charm to the already lovely Bailey home on College Street.

Candies were enjoyed during the games and at their close a tempting salad and ice course was served. To each of the three honorees Miss Bailey presented a pretty piece of lingerie. Miss Agnes Trusty, who was fortunate in holding highest score, received a hand made handkerchief. Consolation, a unique string of beads, was cut by Miss Dorothy Aiken. The guest list included: Misses Margaret Trusty, Marguerite Honeycutt, Margaret Crenshaw, Elizabeth Keeler, Mary Leona Morris, Bay Grant, Blue Horton, Eloise Wilkins, Jewel Clanton, Mary Louise McLeod, Virginia Smith, Adelaide Horton, Bessie Phelan Sharp, Bessie May Finney, Lena Simmons Rayburn, Dit Perry, Agnes Trusty, Chloe Lufkin, Lucile Fedric, Dorothy Aiken, Virginia Lee Horton, Elizabeth Miller Eddleman, Mary Upshaw Jones and Sara Cunningham. The latter was a tea guest.

Miss Horn Honored.
Miss Thelma Horn, charming fiancée of Mr. Leslie Page, of Memphis, was complimented last Friday afternoon at a bridge party given by her sister, Mrs. Jim Horn.

A pink and green color scheme was artistically carried out in the flowers, which were pink roses and verbena, and in the delicious refreshments. Bride tresses were appropriately used.

The bride-elect was dressed in a becoming pink ensemble with harmonizing accessories. Mrs. Horn wore a dainty hand embroidered voile.

Mrs. R. L. Nisbet, Mrs. Ferdinand Hopkins, Jr., and the honoree were each presented beautiful handkerchiefs. High score prize, which was won by Mrs. John Bradley, was also a handkerchief. Mrs. Joe Rumble cut consolation and received a dorian.

Those enjoying the delightful affair with the hostess and honoree were: Mrs. Ben Perry, Mrs. Bryan Baker, Mrs. Dewey Harrison, Mrs. Frank Mohead, Mrs. Ferdinand Hopkins, Jr., Mrs. Joe Rumble, Mrs. John Bradley, Mrs. Donald Sharp, Mrs. Ernest Penn and Misses Louise Stokes and Bernice Lawrence.

Council Meeting.
The Methodist Sunday School officers and teachers held their council meeting last Friday evening at 7:30 in the basement of the church.

A delicious meal was served with Mrs. R. W. Sharp and Mrs. Ed Heath, as hostesses.

The regular reports were read and discussed and announcement was made by the Rev. J. H. Holder of the Sunday School Institute which was held here Monday and Tuesday. A feature of the program was a beautiful solo by Mrs. Frank Matthews.

The Sunday School Institute which was held Monday and Tuesday of this week at the Methodist church was attended by workers from Clarksdale, Sherard, Holly Springs, Sardis and Coffeeville as well as local workers. They were fortunate in having splendid leaders and instructors. They were: Rev. E. H. Gladney, of Sardis, Rev. Clem Baker, of Little Rock, Rev. Ira Brumley, also of Little Rock and Miss Freddie Henry, of Nashville.

Rev. and Mrs. R. H. Gladney and daughter, Sarah Alice, of Sardis, visited their daughter and sister, Mrs. John Brown Owens, the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sharp spent several days the first of this week in Memphis.

Miss Chloe Lufkin visited relatives in Anna, Ill. this week.

Mr. W. L. Armstrong visited friends in Grenada this week.

Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Stevens, had the pleasure of having with them this week four of their daughters, Mrs. Ragsdale McNeill and Mrs. Guy Bumpus, of Jackson, Mrs. J. E. Strain, of Tupelo, and Miss Julia Stevens, of Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. McNeill's children, James and Ragsdale, Jr., have also been visiting their grandparents.

Mrs. Irene McClarty is visiting friends in Oxford.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Perry, with their son, John Rufus, and Paul Farr spent the week-end in Lexington as the guests of Mrs. DeWitt Buck. Other members of the family were there and they enjoyed a pleasant reunion.

Miss Sharp Hostess.

The home of Mrs. R. W. Sharp on Main Street was the scene of an attractive gathering Tuesday morning when Miss Bessie Phelan Sharp entertained at a six table rook party.

Roses and clematis were artistically used in decorating. Misses Lucy Webb Sharp and Mary Phelan Brown assisted in entertaining the guests and in serving them a delightful salad and ice course.

The players were: Misses Lillian Woodson, Dorothy Aikin, Grace Kirk, Lucile Stevens, Susie Mae Peacock, Jewel Clanton, Virginia Smith, Bessie Mae Finney, Eloise Wilkins, Myrtle Cunningham, Margaret Crenshaw, Isabel Bailey, Bay Grant, Mary Upshaw Jones, Mary Leona Morris, Lucile Fedric, Blue Horton, Adelaide Horton, Marguerite Honeycutt, Margaret Trusty, Elizabeth Keeler, Dit Perry, Annie Elizabeth Dubard and Alma Katherine Dubard.

Mrs. Paul LaGrone had a table of bridge last week for Mrs. Paul Gerard, a charming visitor in Grenada. Duplicate boards were used in playing. Mrs. Joe Rumble, Mrs. Bob Townes and Mrs. John Dulweber were her other guests. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Mr. Peyton Ford was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Countiss the first of the week.

Mr. Keene Huffington has returned from a short visit in Memphis.

Compliments Miss Morris.

Miss Bay Grant was the attractive hostess at a five table bridge party last Friday morning in special compliment to Miss Mary Leona Morris, of Little Rock.

Tables were placed on the front porch and in the living room. Both were beautifully decorated with baskets of roses, zinnias and other lovely gift bouquets.

The honoree was presented a lingerie set. Miss Agnes Trusty, who won high score, received a pretty party handkerchief. Low score was held by Miss Lillian Woodson and she was given a novelty yo yo. Miss Corinne Byrd, of Mount Olive, who was a special guest, was given several beautiful hand-made handkerchiefs.

Mrs. Grant graciously assisted her daughter in serving her guests a delicious frozen salad course. They were, besides the honoree: Misses Mary Upshaw Jones, Agnes Trusty, Thelma Jackson, Lena Simmons Rayburn, Mary Elizabeth McNeill, Virginia Lee Horton, Lillian Woodson, Isabel Bailey, Margaret Trusty, Marguerite Honeycutt, Bessie May Finney, Margaret Crenshaw, Virginia Smith, Dorothy Aiken, Bessie Phelan Sharp, Margaret Cobb, Elizabeth Miller Eddleman and Blue Horton.

INDIGESTION

"I suffered from indigestion; everything I ate gave me heartburn," says Mrs. Matie Mullins, of Pound, Va. "For months, I did not see a well day. I worried along, but never felt well."

"I got a package of Theodor's Black-Draught at the store and began taking it—doing every night before going to bed. I had been having an awful pain. After I had taken Black-Draught, this pain entirely stopped. I began to gain in weight, and rested well at night. In a few months I was feeling fine. My health was better than it had been in years."

"I keep Black-Draught in our home, and we all take it for constipation and upset stomach."

Practically every case of indigestion and kindred disorders, is due to fermentation (souring of food). If you are to get permanent relief, the cause of the trouble must be eliminated. This can only be done by an antiseptic.

GORDON'S, an internal antiseptic, does that very thing, and promptly, too. It drives out the acids and poisons—makes the stomach like new.

For quick relief from indigestion, dyspepsia, excess acid, gas, bloating, heartburn, sour stomach, that "tired feeling," you'll find this remarkable remedy simply effective.

THE RETURN OF THE SECOND GROUP OF EXILES TO JERUSALEM

GOLDEN TEXT—The hand of our God is upon all them for good that seek Him.

LESSON TEXT—Ezra 7:1-8:36.
PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Care on Journey.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Care on a Journey.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Prayer Helps.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT
TOPIC—Prayer and Providence.

I. The Leader—Ezra (7:1-10).
1. Who he was (vv. 1-6).

(1) A priest (vv. 1-5). He was from the line which was to stand between God and the people, a descendant of Seraiyah, the chief priest who had a lineage back to Aaron.

(2) A ready scribe (v. 6). He was a teacher of the law of God. A scribe's training began at thirteen years, but he did not enter upon his official duties till thirty years of age, giving him seventeen years of training.

(3) His high ambition (vv. 7-10).
(1) He set his heart to seek the law of the Lord (v. 10). He determined to set out with the purpose to know God's word. No one who purposes in his heart to seek the law of the Lord can fail.

(2) He set his heart to obey the Lord (v. 10).
He was not only concerned with knowing God's word, but obeying it. God's word cannot be known in its fullness by the intellect; it must be experienced.

(3) He set his heart to teach in Israel God's statutes and judgments (v. 10). He not only had a love for God's word, but a desire to implant it in the hearts of others.

II. Ezra's Commission (7:11-26).
Artaxerxes, the king, gave him a copy of the decree, authorizing him to lead a company back to Jerusalem. This decree empowered him:

1. To collect funds (vv. 15, 16).
2. To levy tribute (vv. 21, 22).
3. To appoint magistrates and judges (v. 25).

4. To execute penalties (v. 26).
For this great favor Ezra lifted his heart to God in thanksgiving (v.
27, 28). He was mainly concerned with the fact that he was to be beautifully the Lord's house and he acknowledged that God had put this purpose into the king's heart.

III. The Company Which Returned (8:1-20).
The company was comparatively small—only seventeen hundred and fifty-four males, but including women, children and servants there were perhaps six or seven thousand people.

IV. Ezra's Prayer and Fasting
(8:21-23).
The first thing that Ezra did was to seek God's guidance. All Christians, as well as leaders of the people, should seek divine guidance and help in every new undertaking.
No success can be realized without His help and blessing. The reason Ezra sought the Lord's help was that as far as possible he desired his mission to be free from human dependence. He did not minimize the dangers attending his journey, but since he had assured the king that the hand of the Lord would be upon all for good who sought Him, he was now ashamed to ask the king for a military escort to protect them from the marauding Arabs. His desire was to prove to the king the reality of God's help, for God's honor among the heathen was at stake.
This was a real test of faith, but God was faithful.

V. The Successful Journey (8:24-32).
God heard their prayer. The treasure entrusted to them was great. Perhaps the entire value of money and sacred utensils was about five million dollars. For a small caravan carrying such an amount of money to go through a country infested by robber bands was most perilous, but Ezra knew that God was able and would protect them.

1. Care and honesty (vv. 24-30).
The money was weighed out to them at the start and was to be weighed when turned over to the authorities at Jerusalem. The incentive to honesty and strict accounting of the trust was that they were holy men and were entrusted with that which was holy because it belonged to God. Most exacting care should be exercised in handling the Lord's money.

2. Their safe arrival (vv. 31, 32).
Some four and one-half months were required to make the journey.
God brought them safely to their destination, thus proving that He is faithful to those who put their trust in Him.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—In the town of Ur-bino, Italy, when it was under the control of Cesare Borgia, famous military commander as well as great statesman, a certain Messer Cor-vinus Trismegistus, a roguish, distressing as a fortune teller, caster of spells, and dispenser of poisons to those who can afford to pay for them, was being pined with secrecy the Lady Bianca de Fioravanti, beautiful daughter of the rich and powerful lord of the castle of San Leo, which is holding out against the power of even Cesare Borgia. In the act of entering, the girl is astonished by the appearance of what she takes for an apparition, but who turns out to be human as heretofore, and enters with her. Bianca asks the sorcerer for an elixir which will compel love and mentions the name of the man she desires to conquer, Lorenzo Castrocara, con-dottiero serving under Cesare Borgia.
Corvinus, for a large sum of money, gives her a potion, with directions, and the girl departs. When she leaves, the apparition appears before Corvinus himself. Borgia learns from Corvinus that he has a substance which he declares will restore the dead to life. He then accuses the man of spreading the report that the Sultan Djem had been destroyed by the Holy Father through a subtle poison which Cor-vinus had supplied. Corvinus denies it, but admits he has a deadly poison which will lie dormant in the body for 30 days and at the end of that time result in the death of the person to whom it has been administered. Cesare forces him to drink it, and restore himself to life. The sorcerer secures an emetic and saves himself.

"No matter how, provided that no vital organ shall have been destroyed."

"It can conquer death by poison?"
"It will dissolve and dissipate the poison, no matter what its nature, as vinegar will melt a pearl."

"Excellent!" said the duke, and he smiled his cold, inscrutable smile.
"And now another matter, Thrice-Mage." He thoughtfully fingered his tawny beard. "There is a rumor afoot in Italy, spread, no doubt, by yourself to further the thieving charlatan's trade you drive, that the Sultan Djem was poisoned by the Holy Father, and that the poison—a poison so subtle and miraculous that it lay latent in the Turk for a month before it slew him—was supplied to his holiness by you."

The duke paused as if for a reply, and Corvinus shivered again in fear, so coldly sinister had been the tone.

"That is not true, Magnificent. I have had no dealings with the Holy Father, and I have supplied him with no poisons. I know not how Messer Djem may have died, nor have I ever said I did."

"How, then, comes this story current, and your name in it?"
Corvinus hastened to explain.
Explanations were a merchandise with which he was well stocked.

"It may be thus: Of such a poison I possess the secret, and some there have been who have sought it from me. Hence, no doubt, knowing that I have it, and conceiving that it was used, the vulgar have drawn conclusions, as the vulgar will, unwarrantably."

Cesare smiled.
"This very subtle, Trismegistus?"
And he nodded gravely. "And you say that you have such a poison?" What, pray, may be its nature?"

"That, Magnificent, is secret," was the answer.
"I care not. I desire to know, and I have asked you."

There was no heat in the rejoinder. It was quite cold—deadly cold. But it had more power to compel than any anger. Corvinus fenced no more; he made haste to answer.

"It consists chiefly of the juice of catapuce and the powdered yolk of an egg, but the preparation is not easy."

"You have it at hand?"
"Here, Magnificent," replied the Mage.

And from the same bronze coffer whence he had taken the love phi-lter—the golden elixir—he drew now a tiny cedar box, opened it, and placed it before the duke. It contained a fine yellow powder.

"One drachm of that will kill thirty days after it has been administered, two drachms in half the time."

Cesare sniffed it and eyed the mage sardonically.
"I desire to make experiment," said he. "How much is here?"

"Two drachms, highness,"
The duke held out the box to Corvinus.

"Swallow it," he bade him calmly.
The mage drew back in an alarm that almost argued faith in his own statement. "My lord!" he cried, aghast.

"Swallow it," Cesare repeated, without raising his voice.
Corvinus blinked and gulped.

"Would you have me die, my lord?"
"Die? Do you, then, confess yourself mortal, Thrice-Mage—you the great Corvinus Trismegistus, whose knowledge is wide and deep as the limitless ocean, you who are so little sensible to the ills and decay of the flesh that already you have lived two thousand years? Is this powder such that it can slay even the immortal?"

And now, at last, Corvinus began to apprehend the real scope of Cesare's visit. It was true that he had set it about that Sultan Djem had been poisoned, and that he had boasted that he himself had supplied the Borgia with the fabulous secret drug that at such a distance of time had killed the Grand Turk's brother; and, as a consequence, he had made great profit by the sale of what he alleged was the same poison—a subtle venom, a terrible, as he called it—so, convenient for wives who were anxious for a change of husbands, so serviceable to husbands grown weary of their wives.

He understood at last that Cesare, informed of the defamatory lie that had procured the mage such profit, had sought him out to punish him. And it is a fact that Corvinus himself, despite his considerable knowledge, actually believed in the drug's fabulous power to slay at such a distance of time.

He had found the recipe in an old MS. volume, with many another kindred prescription, and he believed in it with all the blind credu-lity of the Cinquecento in such matters, with, in fact, all the credu-lity of those who came to seek his magician's aid.

The duke's sinister mockery, the extraordinary sense which he even conveyed of his power to compel, the futility of attempting to resist his commands lifted Corvinus with an abrupt dread.

"Highness, alas! I fear it may be as you say," he cried.

"But even so, of what are you afraid? Come, man, you are trifling! Have you not said of this elixir that it will restore the dead to life? I pledge you my word that I shall see that it is administered to you when you are dead. Come, then; swallow this powder, and see that you die of it precisely a fortnight hence, or, by my son's sacred name, I'll have you hanged for an impostor without giving you the benefit of your own dose of resurrection."

"My lord—my lord!" groaned the unfortunate man.

"Now, understand me," said the duke. "If this powder acts as you say it will, and kills you at the appointed time, your own elixir shall be given you to bring you back again to life. But if it kills you sooner, you may remain dead; and if it kills you not at all—why, then, I'll hang you, and publish the truth of the whole matter that men may know the falsehood and the manner of Djem's death upon which you have been trading! Before me,
and—"

The duke's gesture was significant.

Corvinus looked into the young man's beautiful, relentless eyes, and saw that to hope to turn him from his purpose were worse than idle. As soon, then, risk the powder as accept the certainty of the rope, with perhaps a forest of hell upon the rack. Besides, something of the whole matter that men might know the falsehood and the manner of Djem's death upon which you have been trading! Before me,
and—"

With trembling hands he took the powder.

"See that you spill none of it," Cesare admonished him, "or the strangler shall valet you, Thrice-Mage!"

"My lord, my lord!" quavered the wretched warlock, his eyes bulging. Mercy! I . . .

"The poison, or the strangler,"
said the duke.

In despair, and yet heartening himself by the thought of the emetic, Corvinus bore the edge of the box to his mouth, and emptied into his mouth the faintly musty contents. Cesare watching him closely the while. When it was done, the appalled magician sank limply to his chair.

The duke laughed softly, replaced his vizor, and flung his ample cloak about him, strode toward the curtains that masked the door.

"Sleep easily, Thrice-Mage," he said with infinite mockery. "I shall not fall you."

Watching him depart so confidently, so utterly careless and unconcerned, Corvinus was assailed by rage and a fierce temptation to extinguish the lights and try conclusions with Cesare in the dark, summoning the Nubian to his aid.
It was with that thought that he smote the gong. But, whilst the note of it still rang upon the air, he abandoned a notion so desperate. It would not save him if he were poisoned, whilst if he allowed Cesare to depart unmolested he would be the sooner gone, and the sooner Cesare were gone the sooner would Corvinus be free to administer himself the emetic that was now his only hope.

The curtains flashed back, and the Nubian appeared. On the threshold Cesare paused, and over his shoulder, ever mocking, he flung the warlock his valediction:

"Fare you well, Thrice-Mage!" he said; and, with a laugh, passed out.

Corvinus dashed wildly to his shelves in quest of that emetic, fiercely cursing the duke of Valentinois and all the Borgia brood.

CHAPTER II

AS THE Nubian opened the door of the mage's house to give egress to the duke, he felt himself suddenly caught about the neck in the crook of a steely, strangling arm. He must have uttered a whistle almost in his very ear.

Instantly the hitherto silent and deserted street awoke to life. From out of doorways darted swift-footed men in answer to the duke's summons. Into the hands of two of these he delivered the writhing Nubian; to the others he issued a brief command.

"In!" he said, waving a hand down the passage. "In, and take him." And upon that he stepped out into the street and so departed.

Later that evening word was brought him at the palace of how Messer Corvinus had been taken in the very act of mixing a drug.

"The antidote, no doubt," said Cesare to the officer who bore him the information. "You would be just in time to save my experiment from being frustrated. A wicked, faithless, inconsiderate fellow, this Corvinus. Let him be kept in close confinement, guarded by men whom you can trust, until you hear from me again."

Thereafter Cesare summoned a council of his officers—Cesare the Venetian, Naldo the Forlivese, Ramirez de Lorquana, his lieutenant general of Romagna, Della Volpe the one-eyed, and Lorenzo Castrocara.

A tall, clean-limbed young man was this last, very proud in his appearance, with golden hair and handsome, dreamy eyes of a blue as dark as sapphires. Cesare held him in great regard, knowing him valiant, resourceful and ambitious. Tonight he regarded him with a fresh interest, in view of what at the magician's he had overheard.

The duke waved his officers to their seats about his council board, and craved of Della Volpe, who was in charge of the siege operations, news of the fortress of San Leo.

The veteran's swarthy face was gloomy. His single eye—he had lost the other in the duke's service —avoided his master's penetrating glance. He sighed wearily.

"We make no progress," he confessed, "nor can make any. San Leo is not a place to be carried by assault, as your Magnificence well knows. It stands there upon its mountain-top like a monument upon a plinth, approached by a bridge path offering no cover. And, for all that it is reported to be held by scarcely more than a score of men, a thousand cannot take it. There is no foothold at the summit for more than a dozen men at a time, and as for using guns against it,
it were easier to mount a park of artillery upon a fiddle string."

"Yet until San Leo is ours we are not fully masters of Urbino,"
said the duke.

"There is another way to reach San Leo," Castrocara, cried boldly, and drew upon himself the attention of all, particularly the duke,
in whose fine eyes there gleamed
now an eager interest very unusual in him.

Castrocara met with a confident smile this sudden and general attention he had provoked.

"It is not," he explained, "such a way by which a company can go, but sufficient to enable a bold man who is acquainted with it to bear a message, and, at need, even victuals into the fortress. Therefore, it will be necessary that Messer della Volpe surround the entire base of the rock if he would be sure that none shall slip through his lines."

"You are certain of what you tell us?" quoth the duke sharply.

"Certain!" echoed Castrocara; and he smiled. "The way of which I speak lies mainly to the south of the rock. It is perilous even for a goat, yet it is practicable with care to one who knows. Myself, as a boy, have made the ascent more often than I should have cared to tell my mother. In quest of an eagle's nest I have more than once reached the little plateau that thrushes out under the very wall of the fortress on the southern side.
Thence, to enter the castle, all that would be needed would be a rope and a grappling hook; for the wall is extremely low just there—not more than twelve feet high."

The duke pondered the young soldier with very thoughtful eyes, in silence, for some moments.

"I shall further consider this,"
said the duke.

"We cannot leave
the place in the hands of Fioravanti!"

"We shall have to starve him out, then," said Della Volpe.

"And that would take a year at least," put in Castrocara, who had been gathering information. "They have great store of wheat and other victuals and they are watered by a well in the inner bailey of the fortress. With few mouths to feed as they have, they can hold us in check forever."

"There is a rumor today," said Della Volpe, "that the Lord Fioravanti is sick, and that it is feared he may not live."

"Not a doubt but Venice will say I poisoned him," said Cesare, sneering. "Still, even if he dies, it will be no gain to us. There is his cas-tellan, Tolentino, to take his place; and Tolentino is the more obstinate of the two. We must consider some way to be vigilant, and hold the path against all."

Della Volpe inclined his head.
"I have taken all my measures for that," he said.

And now young Castrocara stirred in his chair, leaning forward across the table.

"By your leave," said he, "those measures may not suffice."

Della Volpe frowned, rolled his single eye, which was preternatu-rally fierce, and scowled contemptuously upon this young cockerel whose pretense it seemed to be to teach that was battered old captain the art of bawling.

"There is another way to reach San Leo," Castrocara, cried boldly, and drew upon himself the attention of all, particularly the duke,
in whose fine eyes there gleamed
now an eager interest very unusual

3 CHRYSLERS WITH MULTI-RANGE GEAR SHIFT GIVE NEW DRIVING THRILL

THROUGH the development of a new Multi-Range Gear Shift and other sweeping advancements, Chrysler has left the industry far behind.

First created for the magnificent Chrysler Imperial—and now carrying out the Chrysler ideals of Standardized Quality, also incorporated in the new "77" and "70"—the Multi-Range Gear Shift completely revolutionizes range and quality of motor car performance. The results are entirely without counterpart in automobile experience.

There is nothing new to learn in driving. You shift gears as before—but with what a difference in results and what a difference in the joys of driving!

Not until you actually drive a Chrysler Imperial, "77" or "70" will you realize finally, and fully how far ahead the new Multi-Range Gear Shift has carried the standards of motoring.

Nor do you want to miss seeing and driving the remarkable new Chrysler "66"—lower in price than any six that ever before bore the name of Chrysler—a new creation already proclaimed far and wide as the foremost six-cylinder value of the times. It is every inch a Chrysler, in the best Chrysler tradition, from radiator to rear axle, from rims to roof—and what a value!

The Human Side of Big Business

Edward Plaut, head of Lehn and Fink Products Company, manufacturers of toilet preparations, believes that a college education is of tremendous advantage in the battle for success.

By EDGAR MELS

Young, a practical altruist, Edward Plaut, president of Lehn and Fink Products Company, manufacturers of toilet preparations, has called pure science to his aid in solving the problem of producing chemically pure products. He has called to his aid also, a number of college graduates who become students in his business—and are paid while learning.

He has a fine family, is a Doctor of Philosophy from Columbia University, a graduate of Princeton, and the donor of a $1,000 a year scholarship in pure science to Princeton University given in memory of his father. He has several hobbies—his family, his squash court and football.

Edward Plaut

THAT a college education is of vital importance in a business career is proven by the success attained by college-trained men," said Edward Plaut, president of Lehn and Fink Products Company, manufacturers of toilet articles—things to beautify the feminine sex, that mere man may admire and worship beauty. "I am practicing what I preach. Beginning at the close of the war I took a certain number of newly graduated young men into the business and paid them while they were learning. They went from one department to another—a few weeks in one, six months in another. The course takes from eighteen months to two years. The results have justified the experiment. Most of our executives are young college men. They have made good."

Mr. Plaut, a football and squash fan, is a bundle of energy and vitality. He is thorough in everything he does or undertakes. He leaves nothing to chance. The Lehn and Fink laboratory is noted as one of the finest in the country. As an instance of how it works there can be cited the story that in seeking for a preparation for sunburn, the chemists did not experiment with drugs and animal fats, as had been done previously. They used the spectroscopic to determine the effect of the actinic ray on flesh and skin. As a result, there has been evolved a preparation scientifically correct.

Lehn and Fink was founded in 1874 and became noted for the purity of its drug preparations. A survey made in 1925 disclosed that drugs and chemicals did not pay so well as toilet preparations and the firm took up the manufacture of the latter on a large scale, producing Peloco Tooth Paste, "Lysol" Disinfectant and Hinds Honey & Almond Cream. Incidentally, Mr. Plaut is chairman of the board of Douthett Gray, Inc., maker of internationally known cosmetics and toilet preparations.

"I believe in good pay for good service," continued Mr. Plaut. "I not only believe in it, but am practicing it. When we place a stock issue on the market, we will arrange to have our employees participate in the eventual profits."

"I am especially interested in our laboratory, because I believe that only through research work and chemical knowledge changes almost hourly—can our preparations be kept not only pure, but up to the moment. We cannot afford to gamble with our reputation. Everything that enters our preparations is tested in the laboratory for purity. We assume nothing.

"The best advice I can give to the young man of to-day is to get as good a general education as he possibly can. Then, if he wishes to specialize, let him take a post-graduate course. But a general basis is absolutely necessary. It not only teaches a youth to think, but it trains his mind to analyze. Both are necessary to success in business. The reason I put recent graduates to work and make them take a course in all the departments of our business, is to ascertain for what each is best fitted. When a young man has been graduated, so to speak, I have a talk with him. I try to find out what he likes best in the way of work. Then, I place him accordingly. The plan has been eminently successful."

Mr. Plaut holds no brief for any one university. He has in his employ graduates of Princeton, Harvard, Yale, Michigan—his organization resembles a university club, in which all members are happy in a business sense and all are earning more than comfortable livings.

her home town. Mrs. Rosa Campbell, of Duck Hill, accompanied her back home.

Last Thursday, Aug. 22nd, a gala day was spent by Messrs. Raybon, Neals, Fox and Jones, of Coffeeville, the Houstons of Charleston, Dunaway and McCain, of Grenada and a few others, ten auto loads roared through the country to Lake Hampton in Tallahatchie county in a fishing excursion that brought to sight 200 lbs. of fish with plenty of other refreshments to top off the big fish fry. The day was spent in eating, boat riding, swimming with enough other amusements to cause regrets that the day was so short. The enjoyment was complete beyond description, so say the Messrs. Dunaway.

Prof. A. M. Rogers, principal of the city school, again reminds the parents and children of Grenada high school that school opens on the 9th of September. Only a few days left in which to get ready to be on hand at the opening. Do not forget to have the children observe the preliminary program announced in last week's Sentinel.

J. H. Dunaway is at home again after spending two weeks in Chicago with his children who live there. He states that his stay was doubly pleasant except for the depression of mind as memory of the purpose that made it necessary for him to be there. He announces that it is too big for him and says give him his old home here beneath the shade trees of "Dixie" where he can feel safe and satisfied.

BILL'S IN TROUBLE

I've got a letter, parson, from my son 'way out west. An' my ol' heart is heavy as an anvil in my breast. To think the boy whose futer I had once so proudly planned 'Should wander from the path o' right and come to such an end! I told him when he left us only three short years ago, He'd find himself a-plowing' in a mighty crooked row. He'd miss his father's counsel, and his mother's prayer's too; But he said the farm was hateful, an' he guessed he'd have to go. I know that's big temptation for a youngster in the west, But I believed our Billy had the courage to resist; And when he left I warned him o' the ever-waiting snares, That you find hidden like 'arpen's in life's pathway everywhere. But Bill he promised faithful to be keeful, an' allowed He'd build a reputation th'd make us mighty proud; But it seems as if my counsel sort o' faded from his mind. And now the boy's in trouble of the very wustest kind. His letters come so seldom that I somehow sort o' know'd That Billy was a-trampin' on a mighty rocky road. But never once imagined he would bow my head in shame An' in the dust'd waller his ol' daddy's honored name. He writes from out in Denver, an' the story's mighty short, I just can't tell his mother, it'll crush her poor ol' heart An' so I reckon, parson, you might break the news to her— Bill's in the legislatur,' but he don't say what fur.

COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

By LAFAYETTE ATKINSON
Superintendent of Education

Transportation

In order to carry on the special and consolidated schools of the county it is necessary to provide transportation for a large number of children living in the outlying districts. Trustees of the various schools of the county contract with 18 citizens to deliver the children to and from the schools. Boards of trustees are using every effort possible to provide good equipment for the comfort and convenience of the rural children to attend the school. The best type of truck and truck drivers are being secured and employed to carry on this important phase of the school work. More than 600 pupils will be accommodated by the different school routes. The success of the transportation of the children depends largely on the parents and the principal of the school. By close supervision on the part of the principal and the undivided cooperation of the father and mother the question of handling the children on the route will present a very minor problem and will insure that kind of spirit that is needed for the proper discipline of all concerned.

The children of the county will be in the hands of the following in the various schools: Holcomb: B. W. Woodard, A. R. Dunn, J. L. Carver, A. W. Mullen, Groce Carver, Luther Harris, J. R. Keasler; Gore Springs: Homer Trussell, J. W. Leverett, J. S. Hemphill, Louie Harrison; Wolfe-Hardy: S. H. Kyser, M. S. Tillman; Elliott: T. T. Hayward, E. W. Gant; Tie Plant: Mrs. W. G. Thomas, F. E. Turner; Calvary Line: G. W. Vance.

Just Like An Ostrich

A medical authority says that a person who tries to cover up skin blemishes and pimples with toilet creams and powders is just as foolish as an ostrich that buries its head in the sand to avoid danger. Skin eruptions are nature's warning that constipation is throwing poisons into your blood stream and weakening your whole constitution. Remove the constipated condition and you will strengthen your system against disease and clear up your disfigured skin. The best way to do this is with a course of Lerbine, the vegetable medicine that acts naturally and safely, which you can get at

Be Sure You're Right About Your Cuts---

Quite often an advertiser faces a serious disappointment and loss of money by failing to consult a printer before having his engravings made. Here are two reasons:

Paper, like lumber, is made in standardized sizes. Book papers come in one schedule of sizes, bonds in another schedule of sizes, and cover papers and card boards in still another.

And again, a half-tone engraving will print on some grades of book papers and not on another grade, nor on bond papers.

So, it is seen, that when a large engraving is made for a special purpose one should learn before hand whether or not the paper will cut without a waste in order to take this particular engraving; and whether it will print satisfactorily on the grade of paper that should be used for the advertising matter one has in mind.

We'll be glad to go into such details with you and furnish valuable information without obligation on your part.

"I was so weak," says Mrs. Josephine Cockcroft, of Baldock, S. C., "that I was not able to do anything."

"At certain times, I suffered dreadfully with pains in my back and sides. My head would hurt—felt like it would split open. Spells of weakness would last for weeks."

"I read of Cardui. I sent for a bottle and began taking it. My case was stubborn, and at times I almost lost hope, but I could see a little improvement. At last I began to feel much better. Then I improved rapidly. For the last year I have been in better health than I ever have been before."
